1. Income Dividends and Short-term Capital Gain.

2. Included in Total Capital Gain Distribution.

3. Return of Capital.

4. Total Qualifying Income Dividends / Qualifying Income are the portion of Ordinary Income Dividends that qualify for a reduced capital gains rate if the shareholder meets specific holding period requirements. If the requirements are met for a particular distribution payment, a shareholder may be able to qualify for the reduced rate. The fund is not able to make the determination if the shareholder has met the holding period requirements so this box is empty. Shareholders should consult their own tax advisor for details as to how this information may impact their 2018 tax returns.

5. Included in Ordinary Income Dividends.

6. The fund is not able to make the determination if the shareholder has met the holding period requirements (as described in footnote 4) and is therefore urged to consult their own tax advisor before reporting this amount as Non-Qualifying Income.

This chart is for informational purposes only, and should not be construed as legal or tax advice. Each individual's situation may be different, and therefore you should contact your tax or legal adviser. In addition, since each shareholder's circumstances are different, please use the specific information in the Form 1099-DIV (amended in the case of shareholders holding through certain brokers) that you receive to help prepare your tax returns.
