Market Review and Outlook

Fixed income markets were mixed over October as investors continued to weigh new economic data and central bank policy expectations against the continued impact of COVID on the U.S. economic recovery. U.S. economic data was strong over the month. The October employment report came in ahead of expectations, with non-farm payrolls increasing +531,000 (vs. +450,000 consensus), average hourly earnings met expectations at +0.4% (vs. +0.4% consensus) and the jobless rate falling to 4.6% (vs. 4.8% prior). September inflation data remained elevated, but in line with expectations.

As expected, following their November meeting, the Federal Open Market Committee announced their intent to begin tapering asset purchases by $15 billion per month beginning in mid-November. Details of the tapering program remain forthcoming, but the Committee did highlight that it was prepared to adjust the pace of tapering "as warranted by changes in economic outlook." In terms of policy rates, the Committee made no change and continued to underscore their belief that inflation was elevated largely due to factors that are "expected to be transitory."

High yield spreads widened slightly in the month, yields on the high yield bond market were relatively stable as investors remained comfortable with valuations given that we are at the earlier stages of a credit cycle and defaults are approaching all-time lows. Defaults in the month of October continued to decline and are now down to a level just above the all-time low of 0.38% reached in December 2007. The default outlook continues to remain benign as evidenced by the rate of upgrades relative to downgrades and the low share of distressed issuers. The number of issuers upgraded in October exceeded downgrades for a tenth consecutive month.

While inflation is more persistent than previously expected, the trajectory of real GDP growth and improved pricing power should be supportive of issuer fundamentals. Even as concerns over higher inflation, supply chain constraints and geopolitical risk could result in pockets of short-term volatility, we believe our bottom-up, fundamental credit research process focused on security selection while seeking to avoid credit deterioration and putting only our "best ideas" into portfolios, position us well to take advantage of any volatility.

NBI Review

As of end of October, NBI returned -0.55% and announced a monthly distribution of 0.804 cents per Unit, which represents an annualised distribution of 4.75% (net of fees and expenses).

- For FY2022, NBI has set the target distribution amount per Unit, which is paid monthly by NBI, at 4.75% p.a. (net of fees and expenses) on the NTA per Unit as at 1 July 2021 ("Target Distribution"). The Target Distribution is only a target and may not be achieved. Actual distributions will be monitored against the Target Distribution. The Target Distribution will be formally reviewed at least annually (as at the end of each financial year) and any change in Target Distribution will be notified by way of ASX announcement as required. Investors should review the "Risk Factors" set out in Section 8 of NBI's product disclosure statement dated 21 January 2020 ("2020 PDS"). Section 3.3.1 of the 2020 PDS sets out the Manager's views in relation to the interest rate environment and impact on target distributions.
- Performance is calculated net of management costs, which includes the Responsible Entity fee, the Management fee, the Administration fee, along with custodian, audit and legal fees and other transactional and operational costs. Investors should review the PDS for full details of NBI, including, in particular, the "Fees and Other Costs" section of the PDS.
- Annualised Performance since 26 September 2018 to latest month end.
- Total Return is calculated based on the pre-distribution month end NTA and assumes all distributions are reinvested.
- Credit quality ratings are based on the Bank of America ("BoFA") Merrill Lynch Master High Yield Index composite ratings. The BoFA Merrill Lynch composite ratings are updated once a month on the last calendar day of the month based on information available up to and including the third business day prior to the last business day of the month. The BoFA Merrill Lynch composite rating algorithm is based on an average of the ratings of three agencies (to the extent rated). Generally the composite is based on an average of Moody's, S&P and Fitch. For holdings that are unrated by the BoFA Merrill Lynch Index composite, credit quality ratings are based on S&P's rating. Holdings that are unrated by S&P may be assigned an equivalent rating by the investment manager. No NRSO has been involved with the calculation of credit quality and the ratings of underlying portfolio holdings should not be viewed as a rating of the portfolio itself. Portfolio holdings, underlying ratings of holdings and credit quality composition may change materially over time.
- Calculated from the listing date of 26 September 2018 to 31 October 2018.
- The most recent distribution amount has been announced, and will be paid in the following month.
- FY2019 based on the Initial Public Offer Subscription Price of $2.00; FY2020 based on the NTA per Unit as at 1 July 2019; FY2021 based on the NTA per Unit as at 1 July 2020; FY2022 based on the NTA per Unit as at 1 July 2021;
- Yield to Maturity — The total annualised return anticipated on a bond if it is held until the end of its lifetime. Yield to maturity is considered a long-term bond yield, but is expressed as an annual rate.
- Yield to Worst — The lowest potential annualised total return that can be received on a bond without the issuer defaulting. This can be different from the yield to maturity because it assumes that the issuer will exercise any option it has to "call" the security at the earliest opportunity (to redeem and repay the principal value to an investor early).
